Money Substitute Accepted With Reservations

Prosperity Certificates Drift in From Nearby Towns — Some Presented in Local Stores.

Enquiry among local retailers as to acceptance of Prosperity Certificates revealed the following:

One storekeeper accepted them in payment of accounts, because currency could not be obtained, the payees did not have it.

One, a Social Credit executive member, is accepting as many as he feels he can find an outlet for.

Another storekeeper was accepting, what he stated, was a limited amount, but would not give any change in Canadian currency; credit slips would be given for further purchases to the amount of the change.

One storekeeper stated definitely he would not sell any goods off the shelves for the certificates; the only condition he would accept them on was if they were tendered in payment of charge accounts of long standing.

A prominent storekeeper in Blairmore would accept them, until the end of the month, when he would find if the government would redeem the surplus on hand. It not redeemed, he would not accept any more.

Every storekeeper in Bellevue it is reported was accepting them except one, but he did not fear a boycott; and would adhere to his original decision not to accept.

Hillcrest storekeepers have been accepting them, but doing so with certain reservations, depending on what will happen at the end of the month if they cannot find an outlet for them.

In one case a storekeeper employing several clerks was urged to pay his men 20 per cent. of their wages in Prosperity Certificates. They declined to accept. Another local firm reported that employees declined to take part wages in certificates. The wage earner apparently wants Canadian currency.

The attitude generally is to (Continued on Page Eight)

Dustless Highway Proposal Discussed

Committees in Each Town Appointed to Solicit Subscriptions Towards Oil Surfacing Cost.

25 representatives of Bellevue, Hillcrest, Blairmore and Coleman attended a meeting called by Mayor Pattinson on Monday evening, in the council chamber, Coleman, to discuss raising by public subscription the cost of oiling the highway between Maple Leaf and West Coleman. G. E. Cruckshank was appointed chairman and H. T. Halliwell secretary.

Mayor Pattinson told of a conversation he had with E. O. Duke, M.L.A., who has secured the assurance of Hon. W. A. Fair that the provincial government would bear the labor cost. As there are 1100 automobiles and 65 trucks licensed in Crows Nest Pass towns, it was suggested that subscriptions from the owners, combined with what might be secured from the public in favor of the proposal, would raise sufficient money to purchase the oil. It was estimated the cost would be $600 per mile.

Among those speaking to the proposal were Henry Zak, J. S. D'Appolonia, A. E. Knowles, W. L. Evans, Fred Gregory and H. Meade.

The gathering passed a motion by Henry Zak and John Salvador in favor of appointing committees in the various towns to solicit subscriptions, and report at an early date.

Committees: Bellevue: Harry Meade, F. Wostenholme, J. Hill, E. Fisher, N. Stewart.

Blairmore: Henry Zak, W. L. Evans, with power to add.

Hillcrest: G. E. Cruckshank, Fred Gregory.

Frank: J. J. Murray, Ed. Donkin, Tom Hewitt.

Coleman: Mayor Pattinson, W. Bell, J. A. McDonald, W. L. Rippion, J. L. Lonsbury, H. T. Halliwell.

Sergeant Cawsey suggested that considerable of the dust nuisance could be minimized if drivers would proceed at a speed of 25 miles per hour over crowded sections of the highway.

A. E. Knowles stated he would suggest to Mr. Duke that the small bridges on the highway between Blairmore and Coleman be widened.

Following general discussion the meeting adjourned.

Pass Towns Pay Big Sum

At Least $57,000 Annually in Licenses and Gasoline Tax Goes for Highways.

On a conservative basis of figuring, on the number of autos and trucks in Pass towns, license fees and drivers licenses amount to at least $22,000 annually, in addition to which thousands of gallons of gas are taxed with 7¢ per gallon. Estimating the gasoline consumption at 500,000 gallons annually gives $35,000, making a total estimated revenue from Pass towns of $57,000 annually. In view of this amount, it is high time the highways department gave more assistance towards surfacing the highway between these towns than just meeting the cost of labor in oil surfacing.

The above figures might be considerably increased if the actual figures from the government records were available. They are based on an estimated conservative consumption for the average car owner.

Sarnia Celebrates 100 Years Progress

The Sarnia "Canadian Observer" on July 29 published its Centennial Anniversary Edition, commemorating 100 years progress, a copy of which is acknowledged from Mr. O. E. S. White-side, former general manager of International Coal Co., at present living in Sarnia. It has 84 pages, 8 columns wide, and is the largest issue ever published in Sarnia. Every branch of business is represented, many with full page advertisements, while civic and local organizations and individuals have contributed a wealth of material which gives a comprehensive historical record of the city's development.

Sarnia, "The Imperial City on the St. Clair," will enjoy valuable publicity as a result of the enterprise of its daily newspaper in assembling and publishing such a fine edition.

"Bill" Got A Thrill

Bill Burrows, well-known rock driller, and who in his spare moments cultivated the beautiful garden at the town hall and acts as godfather to the fire brigade, recently visited the gold mining district at Salmo. He handled a real gold brick worth about $30,000, and says his heart didn't even flutter, though he allowed his thoughts to dwell on what he would do if he were the owner.

It was at the Queen Mine where he spent a very interesting few hours delving into the work of gold mining instead of coal mines.

He spent a week there visiting his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, and from there he went on to near Trail, where his brother who 30 years ago was a well-known boxer in the Pass towns, now resides on a farm, and whom he found in good health, and as ready for a scrap as he was in the earlier days. Time was all too short, stated Bill, "I wish I had stayed another week."

Forest Fires Being Watched

Reports this morning from Lynx Creek cabin stated that the fire was under control, and not in danger of spreading north towards Coleman, as high ridges intervening were bare of timber, and the prevailing wind is east or west. About 250 men are still on the job, as the extreme dryness will necessitate them staying out till a good rain comes. Quite a number of local young men are getting their first experience of fire fighting.

Damage has been very extensive throughout the south area of Castle River.

Death Of Mrs. D'Amico

Mrs. Annie D'Amico died on Wednesday at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie D'Amico, Seventh street. She came here some time ago, and several weeks ago suffered a paralytic stroke, leaving her in a weakened condition. She was almost 80 years old, and was born in Italy. Her husband died many years ago, and those of the family surviving are Charles of Coleman, George at Nordegg, Tony or Fernie. A son and daughter died when young. The funeral will be held on Friday at 2 p.m., with service at Holy Ghost church and burial in the Catholic cemetery.

Weekly Press Second to None

The following extract is from an address by Mr. W. L. McTavish, editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, to the weekly newspapers of Canada:

"The newspaper's place, if it lives up to its responsibilities, if it holds uppermost in its community "the good taste which is the conscience of the mind and the conscience which is the good taste of the soul" is secure, declared Mr. McTavish.

The Daily Tribune pointing out that the people in cities are likely to overlook the service performed by the weekly newspapers editorially said:

"In spite of increasing interest which everyone takes these days in national and international affairs, the greater portion of our attention is still necessarily concentrated on our own affairs. It is right that it should be so. We are all influenced, consciously or unconsciously, by our environment. If the community in which we live is well run we respond by taking pride in it, and by trying to make it still better.

"An honest, well conducted weekly newspaper can do more than any other single agency in building up local pride and spirit of service in its community. The weekly press of Canada takes second place to none in this respect."

Age and Mental Capacity

In these days when much is heard of proposals to retire the elderly to allow youth to take their places, the aged and those who have passed what is commonly understood as the years of their prime will derive a good deal of comfort from recent discoveries of eminent psychologists.

In brief, it has been discovered by actual tests, not promulgated as mere theories, that—(1) Mental power does not decline with age, contrary to popular misconception, and (2) That the ability of adults of advancing years to learn new things is almost as great as that of youth.

The first-mentioned discovery, that the mind does not grow old with declining physical powers, is the result of tests made by Dr. Irving Large, psychologist of Teachers' College, Columbia University, but according to Albert Wigman, in an article in the Reader's Digest, older people require a little more time than their more youthful contemporaries to arrive at the same mental conclusions, the additional time required increasing somewhat with advancing years. In other words, there is no decline in mental capacity as one grows older, but there is a slowing down in the speed of mental processes.

As the result of a recent revision of mental tests given some years ago to hundreds of people ranging in age from ten to 90 years of age, in which all the tested were limited to time in answering the questions put to them, Dr. Large found that with a power premium added to compensate for lack of speed the older age group did not only showed no loss of intellectual power but "the people of all ages had higher scores than those around 25. This increase," he adds, "may have been partly or largely due to the death of the slower and duller people."

When to this discovery is added the findings of Professor Edward L. Thorndike that older people have as great an ability to learn as youth, at least up to the age of 50 and 55, the older generations not only have no reason to believe that they should be "put on the shelf" but have good cause to decide that they are as valuable an asset to society as they were 30 or 40 years ago.

Dr. Thorndike's tests resulted in the general conclusion that "adults up to at least 45 can learn new things about as well as young people in their late teens; and that, while learning ability seems to decline very slowly from age 25 on, this small decline is offset in many cases by the older persons' interest in the subject, their feeling of its immediate practical value, and other factors, so that the real mental output of people up to 50 or 55 is often greater than that of people of about the same intelligence, working at the same tasks at 20 or 25."

Summing up his own conclusion as the result of his tests, Dr. Large said: "As far as mental ability is concerned, there need be no retiring age. The probabilities are that the older a person becomes, the more valuable he becomes. He possesses the same mental power he had in his young manhood plus his wealth of experience and knowledge of his particular job. These are things that no youngster, however brilliant, can pick up. For the same reason there is very definite value to the idea of 'elder statesmen' in politics and business."

These definite discoveries, established by exhaustive tests, should result in the re-establishment of confidence in their own powers on the part of the older generations and should serve to remind people of advancing years that there is no occasion for them to retire into their shells under a mistaken impression that they are "back numbers" and that there is no necessity to relegate themselves to mental arm chairs.

On the contrary, the announcement of these proven discoveries should stimulate the older folk, who have already accustomed themselves to the idea that their physical powers are inevitably failing because of advancing years, to again come out in the open and resume the place which their capacities warrant in the life of the family, the community and the nation. No longer need they imagine they are dead, in two essentials of happy and successful lives—mental capacity and ability to learn.

To again quote Dr. Large: "As the years advance, we should with quiet confidence, allow ourselves a little greater handicap for time, but as far as mental power is concerned, I believe, we can now be assured that we need not allow ourselves any handicap at all."

English Vicar Finds It Impossible To Please People

Who'd be a parson?

Listen to what Rev. C. Paul Gliddon, vicar of St. James' church, in the Walthamstow suburb of London, has to say about his job in his parish magazine:

If he is devout he is accused of "spending all his time in that church of his." If he visits his parish he is "always putting his nose into other people's business." If he does not, they say, "we might be dead for all he cares."

If he tries to meet the wishes of his people he "hasn't a mind of his own." If he carries out his own policy in his own way he "has no respect for other people's feelings."

There's this to be said about the birthday card you receive from your life insurance company—they send best wishes and really mean it.

If you have anything pleasant to say put it on paper; but quarrels, if we must quarrel, should always be word of mouth.

Biggest Short Wave Station

B.B.C. Is Going to Spend $1,250,000 On Work At Daventry

The British Broadcasting Corp. will have spent $1,250,000 on making Daventry the biggest short wave broadcasting station in the world by the end of this year.

Six transmitters and a complicated system of 22 serials with reflectors will give up to 100 per cent. better reception in the remote parts of the empire than does the existing equipment. A full 24-hour service will be possible if needed instead of the present 17½-hour service.

One of the transmitters radiating two beams in opposite directions will be able to serve South Africa and Canada simultaneously.

The government is determined to encourage the B.B.C. with "The Projection of England." Germany with 18 transmissions a day already has a vast "empire" broadcasting service.

Many of these German programs are in English and are particularly directed to those whom the Berlin announcer calls "Our dear friends and listeners in South Africa." When the B.B.C.'s plans for Daventry are complete Britain will be heard throughout the world at considerably greater strength than Germany.

Every effort is being made to have all six of the Daventry transmitters working at maximum efficiency in time for the proposed world-wide coronation broadcasts.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, whose genius has thrilled music lovers the world over for nearly half a century, has at last consented to make his art available to millions through the medium of the cinema, it became known.

The pianist master and post-war premier of Poland is to take part in a film now being made at the Dagenham studio in London.

In the film, Paderewski is scheduled to play Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, always the piece de resistance in his concert programs, and selections from Chopin's works.

Honor Memory Of Haig

Vimy Veterans Remember Commander Of British Armies In France

The ancient abbey at Dryburgh, Scotland, whose walls have for four centuries looked over the winding River Tweed was the locale of a service which saw the homage of the government and people of Canada paid to the memory of Earl Haig of Bemersyde, who commanded the British armies in France during the war.

At the same time a wreath of poppies and Canadian maple leaves was deposited on the simple soldier's cross which marks the sepulchre of Haig.

Rev. John Kelman, minister of Fairbank Presbyterian church, Toronto, and national representative of the tuberculous veterans' section of the Canadian Legion, was the preacher at the special service which was attended by members of the Vimy pilgrimage, representatives of the Canadian government and many Scottish dignitaries.

The Toronto minister recalled the "numerous attacks" on the memory of Haig by those "who had become bold enough to launch them only when his great soul was silenced forever." These had been met with calmness, with dignity and unfaltering courage by Lady Haig, widow of the dead commander.

Used Notes in Braille

War-Blinded M.P. Gave Speech In Broadcast Debate

It was a surprise to most M.P.'s to see Sir Ian Fraser using notes for the speech he made in a broadcasting debate. Sir Ian is the war-blinded M.P. who was responsible for getting blind people the privilege of free wireless licenses.

The notes he used were embossed in Braille on light brown cards rather thinner than playing cards. Each card contained only one or two words as a heading for a section of his speech. Sir Ian Fraser held his notes in front of him and passed his finger along the card to give himself his next point. Using note in this way he kept his head up, and his voice was not interrupted like those of most M.P.'s when they look down at their manuscripts.

On the other hand, Major Tryon gave an example of a speech rendered largely inaudible by the use of a manuscript. The Postmaster-General's fault was the more glaring.—London Daily Telegraph.

Anglo-Russian Trade

Commercial Agreement Establishing Credit For Soviet Orders

An Anglo-Russian commercial agreement establishing a £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) credit for Soviet orders for British exports was announced in London by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

Russian orders are to be placed by Sept. 30, 1937. Runciman said the Soviet trade representative had given formal assurance that Russia intends to place orders up to the full limit of the credit. They will not, however, include munitions.

Runciman also announced suspension of Anglo-Italian negotiations for the resumption of trade. Italy, he said, was unwilling to accept any arrangement in regard to trade debts which could be considered "adequate."

At the same time Italy is imposing severe restrictions on imports from the United Kingdom, he stated.

Old Italian Theatre Found

Contained Relics Dating Back To Time Of The Caesars

Discovery of an Augustan theatre, regarded as one of the most important archaeological finds in Italy in recent years, has been made. Even remnants of the machinery for raising the curtain were uncovered in the well-preserved centuries-old building.

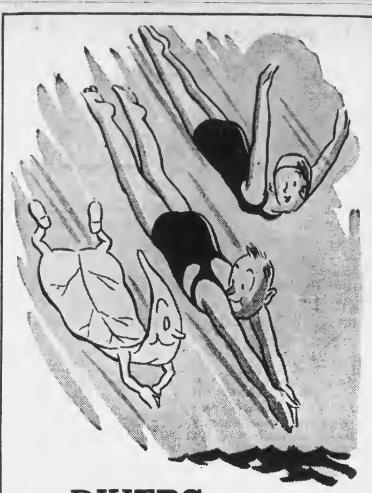

It was found on the site of the ancient town of Casinum and among the reliefs yielded were inscriptions, statues, money and stagecraft utensils dating back to the time of the Caesars.

Casinum was the ancient Italian town where Mark Antony was reported to have held his orgies and where, at the foot of a mountain the Romans constructed a still-existing amphitheatre.

Deer Too Dear

Dear deer too dear, according to A. Fletcher of Glenmorrison, who recently applied to the Ontario Department of Agriculture for protection from the animals. Mr. Fletcher planted a garden twice this year only to have a herd of about 20 deer destroy it in nocturnal raids. He estimated the deer have consumed about 5,000 cauliflower and 3,000 heads of late cabbage.

Theatres In Russia

Eleven Thousand Motion Picture Palaces To Be In Operation

Eleven thousand sound equipped motion picture theatres will be in operation in the Soviet Union by the end of 1936, according to government plans. The number of theatres, motion picture houses and circuses of all types is expected to reach 44,800, an increase of 8,000 over 1935 figures.

New theatres will be built in Moscow, Leningrad, Alma-Ata, Kazakhstan, Ulan-Ude, Chelyabinsk, Batum, Karkov, Ashkhabad and many other cities.

Construction of the country's largest motion picture theater has been completed in Leningrad, which carries out the traditions of a "movie palace." The facade of the five-story building is adorned with 15 pillars of Karelian granite. The interior of the building is faced with marble and adorned with bas-reliefs. Seats are provided for 1,500 spectators.

Problems Of Western Areas Will Soon Be Discussed By Cabinet

Ottawa.—The end of this week will witness the return from abroad of at least four members of the Dominion cabinet, while a fifth, Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines, is due to arrive from the west.

With this addition of five to its ranks cabinet will be in position to settle down and deal with several important matters laid aside temporarily during the dog days.

Before it does, however, it is expected attention will be given the western drought situation and its accompanying hardships. A conference with provincial representatives will be held soon after the ministers return.

From his ministers who have been there, Prime Minister Mackenzie King will be able to glean first-hand information about the European situation which should be of value to him when he goes to Geneva for the League of Nations meetings in September.

It is expected he will be accompanied to that meeting by Hon. Raoul Dandurand, minister without portfolio, who has had long experience in representing Canada at the League. Dr. O. D. Selton, under-secretary for external affairs, will be in the Canadian delegation.

The four ministers who are due to arrive from Europe about the end of the week are Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance; Hon. G. C. Power, minister of pensions; Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of defence, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. For the time being, Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, will remain in Europe where, it is reported, he is meeting with success in his negotiations for wider markets. It is now reported Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, will stay over with him. Mr. Euler may get back to Canada about the end of the month.

He was appointed to the supreme court bench in 1910 after serving in the Alberta legislature as a Liberal member for Lethbridge constituency. He became chief justice of the trial division of the supreme court in 1920.

Stringent Regulations For The Protection Of Canada's Wild Fowl

Ottawa.—Stringent regulations to protect Canada's wild ducks and geese were announced by Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of the interior, as federal officers moved to save the wild water fowl of the country from extinction.

The numbers of ducks and geese has been depleted seriously in recent years by drought, failure of eel-grass and other causes.

The new regulations provide a general reduction in the length of season and bag limit. A maximum season of two months was provided; hunting and live water fowl decoys were prohibited. Bag limits were not to exceed 12 ducks per day and 150 for the season, and five geese per day and 50 for the season. The sale of water fowl, largely prohibited now, is closed except in the extreme north.

Brant, an Atlantic coast type of wild goose, was protected by a closed season. This species has been depleted past the danger point by failure of eel-grass, its main food supply. This plant has been plagued by some epidemic disease which scientists have been unable to control.

For months the interior department has been investigating condi-

No Coalition

Manitoba Conservatives Decline To Deal With Bracken

Winnipeg.—Eric F. Wills, leader of the newly-elected Conservative party in the Manitoba general elections, stood pat on his declaration there can be no coalition of his party under Premier John Bracken.

"Our caucus did not refuse to consider a coalition on a fair basis," Mr. Wills stated in referring to a five-four cabinet division that favored the government. "There can, however, be no coalition under Mr. Bracken."

While the province bumbled with talk of re-shaping party alignments the Liberal-Progressive leader hurried to his northern constituency at The Pas where he will campaign in one of two deferred elections set for Aug. 21. W. W. Kennedy, K.C., a former member of parliament for Winnipeg South Centre, will contest Rupert's Land.

Friendly Relations

Canada Looking Out Broadened Windows For World Trade

Victoria.—United, Canada is looking out broadened windows at a vision of trade and friendly relations with the world. Hon. J. E. Michaud, Dominion minister of fisheries, told the Laurier club:

The minister said he had been vastly impressed by his first official journey over the Rocky mountains. He looked to achievement of a national consciousness in Canada, where provinces of the east would know and understand the provinces of the west, and all work together in the common ideal of a united and progressive land.

Holiday Cruise

Two Destroyers Will Convoy The King's Yacht

London.—King Edward made his sixth flight since his accession in a quick round trip to visit his mother in Sandringham.

The king's flight to Queen Mary's side came a reunion before his leaving, to join his escort on the yacht Nahlin for a holiday cruise through the Mediterranean.

A few hours later at Sandringham House the king flew back to London.

Two destroyers, the Grafton and the Gloworm, were assigned by the British admiralty as a convoy for the yacht Nahlin.

Royal Treasures

London.—Personal treasures of royalty from the earliest times to the present will be shown at the Royal Treasures exhibition next April and May as a special attraction for coronation year.

Receive Cash For Gold

Placer Miners In B.C. Sell Direct To Provincial Government

Victoria.—Virgin gold valued at $10,000, washed from the streams of British Columbia, has been acquired by the provincial government in the last year under its small purchase plan for placer miners, the department of mines estimated. The amount purchased was 304 ounces.

Little pokes of gold dust come to the assayer's office every week from gold commissioners in outlying parts of the province. Some have an ounce, others have less.

The government pays the miners $28 an ounce. Previously the miners had to save up enough gold for a shipment to the Dominion assay office, but now it is cash on the spot. The provincial government makes up the shipment and the gold is resold to the Dominion government.

Protest To Madrid

Claims German Freighter Shelled By Loyalist Warship

Berlin.—The reich government officially protested to Madrid the shelling of a German freighter by a loyalist warship and also charged that four young Nazis had been "assassinated" by a Spanish leftist firing squad.

Protests were sent to Madrid and to the head of the Spanish navy demanding that steps be taken to avoid any incident similar to that at El Arish when the German freighter Silesia narrowly escaped being hit by shells from the destroyer Almirante Valdes, which was bombarding the town.

The official German news agency states that German warships were stationed in the Mediterranean "to help German fugitives and protect German interests."

Forest Fires

Lightning Blamed For Fires In Southwestern Alberta

Calgary.—"Dry" lightning — so termed by foremen because it is unaccompanied by thunder or rain — caused concern to firefighters in southwestern Alberta where timberlands were flamed wept a week ago.

Lightning struck twice in isolated districts, one fire starting atop a mountain at the headwaters of Galatea creek, and the other near Trapp creek, in the Highwood valley. Forestry crews were checking both fires.

Other fires were still burning in the Castle river and Highwood valley, but all were reported under control as hundreds of men maintained guard along the fire front.

New Radio Station

Canadian Commission To Erect Station On Lulu Island

Vancouver.—Mayor G. G. McGeer turned the first sod for a new Canadian radio commission broadcasting station on Lulu Island which will be equipped with a 5,000-watt transmitter.

Plans for stepping up CRCV's 500-watt station, under discussion for more than a year, materialized two weeks ago with the letting of a contract for the new station.

A 40-foot tower and new studios are expected to be completed by October.

More Coal Produced

Ottawa.—The Dominion Bureau of statistics reported Canada's coal production last June at 1,022,385 tons compared with 1,036,135, output of 930,093 tons and a five-month average of 859,458 tons. Coke production was only slightly less than a year before.

European Conflict Is

Feared Over The Trouble In Spain

London.—Events in the Spanish civil war are moving swiftly towards a climax.

Fearing a European conflict over Spain, France urgently pressed her "truce" or non-intervention plan. Chancellor Hitler formally protested to Madrid against the shooting of four Germans captured in Spain and demanded indemnity.

Great Britain warned both the Spanish government and General Francisco Franco, the insurgent leader to respect British life and property. Spanish government warships bombarded Algeciras, in neutral strength held in Spain proper near Gibraltar, and Ceuta, insurgent base in Morocco. Battle by sea and air looms in the Mediterranean.

The French hands-off plan, as submitted to the powers concerned, proposes briefly:

1. Supply of munitions of any kind to Spain be banned, including their transit through signatory countries; this prohibition would cover both military and civil aircraft of all kinds.

2. All munitions of war on order before the outbreak of civil war are to be retained by the countries of origin and not sent to Spain.

Practically all of the governments approached agreed to accept the principles in principle. But the question was put from many points: Acceptance in principle, but what about practice?

Evidence accumulates that while the Spanish government has been receiving assistance from sympathizers in Russia, France and Great Britain, the rebels have received help from Italy and Germany. Reports are current here that before the civil war began Germany and Italy furnished General Francisco Franco, rebel leader, with munitions in return for concessions if the rebellion succeeded.

Control of the Mediterranean long has been Premier Mussolini's dream. In the early days of his accession to power he talked of it as an Italian sea. In the eastern Mediterranean Mussolini converted the island of Rhodes and Leros into combined naval and air bases. He made a treaty with Albania which gives him virtual control of the Adriatic.

In the Red sea he secured the island of Djounemrah from the French government of Pierre Laval. In the case of Pantelleria, between Sicily and Tunisia, plans to become a new Italian stronghold.

A decade ago Il Duce negotiated with Pimre de Rivera, then Spanish dictator, for a base in the Balearic islands. But with the advent of the Spanish republic the scheme fell through.

Mussolini's present plan, it is suggested, is to secure a revival of the Balearic scheme and at the same time to secure a base in Spanish Morocco.

Britain is building new fortifications in Cyprus as a counterpart to Italian bases in the eastern Mediterranean. An Italian base in Spain or Morocco might prove a serious rival to Gibraltar, commanding the straits between the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

Opinion in Britain in the main is against intervention on either side in Spain. The average man regards it as a mess from which Britain is better free. The danger of the fire spreading none the less creates misgiving.

May Abdicate Throne

London Paper Carries Report About Queen Of Holland

London.—The Daily Herald declared Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has decided to abdicate, probably next year.

She will give up her throne, it was said, in favor of her daughter, Juliana, after the princess is married to Prince Charles of Sweden, to whom the newspaper asserted, her engagement soon will be announced.

The newspaper added that private talk between the Dutch and Swedish royal families have been under way for some time in connection with the engagement.

Financial arrangements for the match, the newspaper said, were facilitated by a proposed amendment to the Dutch constitution reducing Queen Wilhelmina's income $27,000 sterling ($\approx $135,000$) annually in favor of any prince consort.

Wheat Exports Higher

Increased Almost 80,000 Bushels Above Previous Crop Year

Ottawa.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported total exports of Canadian wheat for the crop year ended July 31 at 222,215,279 bushels, an increase of almost 80,000 bushels above the figure for the previous crop year.

Overseas exports totalled 172,045,574 bushels compared with 116,748,931 and United States imports of Canadian wheat 50,167,705 compared with 25,894,124.

Exports during the last week of the crop year were 5,286,657 bushels of which 4,102,657 went overseas and 1,184,000 to the United States for consumption and milling in bond. The total was 4,032,790 greater than in the corresponding week last year.

Many Executions Of Prisoners In Madrid Accused Of Disloyalty

Hendaye (On the Franco-Spanish frontier).—Between 5,000 and 10,000 executions of prisoners suspected of disloyalty to the leftist regime have taken place in Madrid since the revolt began, according to Mrs. Mackenzie.

The Marquess of Willingdon, great grand-niece of Sir Alexander Mackenzie has arrived here. Mrs. Mackenzie has already travelled down the Mackenzie river to Akalavie over the route first covered by her great grandfather and now intends to go to Bella Coola, Wash., where Mackenzie viewed the Pacific ocean in 1793.

Follows Old Route

Vancouver.—Mrs. S. Kirkland Vesey of London, England, great grand-niece of Sir Alexander Mackenzie has arrived here. Mrs. Vesey has already travelled down the Mackenzie river to Akalavie over the route first covered by her great grandfather and now intends to go to Bella Coola, Wash., where Mackenzie viewed the Pacific ocean in 1793.

Hendaye (On the Franco-Spanish frontier).—Between 5,000 and 10,000 executions of prisoners suspected of disloyalty to the leftist regime have taken place in Madrid since the revolt began, according to Mrs. Mackenzie.

"The bases on which these figures were reached was the number who disappeared, given out by semi-official and authoritative circles.

"The population in a state of flux, got into the habit of walking the streets unshaven, unwashed, half-dressed.

"The city itself is in dirty negligence. Many of the stores closed down. Others are deserted. The streets are dirty.

"Automobiles taken over for military purposes sweep through the streets at high speed, filled with men and women with revolvers or rifles in their hands. A number of the speeding cars hurtle into the sidewalks, then founders gone, their radiators smoking up. The Gran Via will soon have no street sign left.

"Each day there are new fatalities. Each day many trucks and private cars take new contingents to the mountains northwest of the city. There are now 12,000 there fighting 10,000 rebels and they cannot advance."

One Frenchman who returned from Los Molinos, a village near Guadarrama, declared: "My impression is that the rebels are playing with the government forces. They retreat a little, then advance a little. Their artillery fire is very successful. Government losses are considerable."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE PROPOSAL to oil surface the highway from Bellevue to Coleman arouses interest. The plan first proposed by Mayor Pattinson places the burden of cost on the towns really interested, but it also provides a surfaced road for inter-provincial traffic, including the busses which knock more out of a highway than many cars.

TOWNSPEOPLE have also suffered from the dust annoyances and included in the scheme might well be the additional cost of oiling the town streets. Then it would make a more popular appeal than if the proposal was confined only to the highway, seeing that the people at large will pay. The government cost would be so slight in comparison that it represents very little of the total sum required. The fact remains that to secure this improvement the people of this district will have to pay, as the government apparently is making no further appropriations for road improvements in the province. The proposal merits consideration, for everyone has suffered from twitching eyes and sore noses as a result of the dust this summer.

DRY WEATHER has required much more than the usual pumping of water into the town mains. Repeated urgings not to waste water have had some response, but still some disregard the warning. Had those who flagrantly waste water to pay for it, they would probably claim it was beyond their ability, for they would find a water bill in one month costing more than a whole year's household supply. Water meters have been suggested in order to give everyone a fair deal, for the flat rate compels the small user to pay for the much larger quantity which his careless neighbor may use or waste. Some claim that water in the river is free, and costs nobody anything. So is religion, but it costs something to have it brought to you. It is those who think religion is free which may account for the person's salaries being in the red, and so with the water—those who think it costs nothing increase the cost for those who use discretion.

MANY have asked each other if they are going to register. There is a printed form, which asks you a lot of questions on your personal affairs, so that government officials may find on what basis they can provide basic dividends. The covenant specifies that you must do certain things in this great plan of so-called "co-operation." Those who follow without question the reasoning of Premier Aberhart will sign. They voted for his plan, therefore they cannot well decline. But those who do not sign are liable to be accused of non-co-operation. Such a charge should not be held against them, for a man is only deceiving himself and the government if he signs something which he does not believe is workable, or does not intend to abide by the provisions of the covenant. The fact still remains that you cannot get something for nothing, and if Social Credit can prove this impression to be wrong, then we are to experience the greatest revelation of ancient and modern times, and the whole world will sit up and take notice.

COAL MINING towns are in some respects like the trenches. There the wildest rumors would start and end, causing somewhat of a sensation while they floated around, and increasing a little each time they were passed on. The best one this week is that an additional order of 300,000 tons has been secured by the local companies, and that six shifts a week are in sight. We trust that there will not be a rush of unemployed here on the strength of this rumor, for we cannot confirm it, and have not met anybody who can or will.

OLD FILES of a newspaper reveal forgotten history. Only in the short space of fifteen years, Journal files bring forth something of interest, particularly in relation to schools. Often comment has been made that Coleman schools lack representation in local athletic activities. Yet in 1921 it appears the school had a baseball team, and played a prominent part in other interesting activities. Is it a fact that young people have been drawn away from organizing their own sports clubs by other attractions, principal of which may be automobile, or is it that we have fewer leaders who will interest themselves in giving youth the leadership it requires? What has happened to the schools annual field day competitions?

BOYCOTTS can work both ways, as those who propose them should realize. Such a suggestion is a plain proof of intolerance. If a thing is right it will endure; if not it will fall to the ground. Government can only be successfully carried on by compromise.

SYMPATHY for the bereaved relatives of the six persons killed on Sunday in the level crossing tragedy at Bellevue is widespread throughout the Pass towns. Four young women with two older male relatives, highly thought of in their respective communities, were wiped out so suddenly as to bring home the truth of the words: "In the midst of life we are in death."

Dog's Savage Attack

Stanley Creegan, 6 years old, was attacked by a dog owned by S. Howarth on Monday afternoon, and severely bitten on the arms, face and body. Fortunately, the owner of the dog was at hand, and after a struggle cut the dog off. It made a second run at the child, and was again hauled off, when the child ran into his home, the dog rushing at the door after him. Had it not been for Mr. Howarth and others close at hand, the little fellow may have been killed by the viciousness of the attack. It is understood the doctors have instructed that the dog be kept under observation for one week before it is destroyed, to find if it develops rabies. Immediate treatment by Dr. Blair was given the boy, who is reported to be around again. Mr. Howarth states he will be sorry to have to destroy the dog, as it had never given trouble before and was always a good faithful watch dog.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From The Journal of Sept. 22, 1921)

Parts of Grades V. to VII. together with prize-winners and their parents, Rev. D. K. Allan and Rev. Fr. McCormick, the school board and Mr. W. L. Ouimet, assembled for the presentation of prizes for efficiency, in the public school grades, donated by Mr. Ouimet.

Principal R. G. Powell stated that in the exams 437 tried, 410 passed, and in high school there was only one complete failure, 23 students writing. One of these pupils, E. M. Price, had the unique distinction of winning the I. O. D. E. scholarship of $250.

For general efficiency, prizes were given by Mr. Ouimet, who set aside a stated sum of money for this purpose. The winners were—Grade VIII. Nora Derbyshire and Agnes Kilgannon; Grade VII. Blythe Davidson; Grade VI. Aurelia Salustro; Grade V. Fraser McLeod.

A meeting will be held in the council chamber on Sept. 23, (1921) to consider the building of an indoor skating rink. Everybody on deck and make this much needed place of recreation a completed building inside of the next few weeks.

Mrs. Kellogg gave a delightful children's party on Friday afternoon in honor of her little son's first birthday. There was a large gathering of little folks and all had a great time. They romped, played and had lots of good things to eat.

Note from the High School Review: Mr. Jack Graham of the post-office staff having resumed his duties, Miss Agnes Menzie O'Dell, his relief, has resumed her place in the high school and so Grade XI. increases to live.

What is the town coming to? To think that the young ladies of the high school should parade the streets feeding on taffy apples on a stick. The dignity of our school must be upheld and the male students intend interviewing the school board to this end.

Mr. A. C. Fraser, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. A. W. H. McLeod, and his sister-in-law Mrs. Lily Fraser, left on Wednesday for Calgary to spend a few days prior to returning to Sydenham Mines, N. S., after six weeks visit here.

A. L. H. Somerville has been appointed resident engineer at Coleman airport. Major Hornby is in charge of the construction work, and has 40 men, 5 teams, a caterpillar tractor and three trucks. Work is progressing more rapidly than under the old system where only manual labor was employed, and the field will form one of the important links in the Trans-Canada air mail and passenger service.

What's The Reason?

Glancing over early census figures released by the Dominion Statistician, it is significant that many urban centres in Saskatchewan show a decrease from the 1931 to the 1936 census, while quite a number of Alberta centres show an increase. Can it be that Social Credit dividends are attracting people from the neighboring province, or did it just happen? The City of Saskatoon showed a decrease of 1685 in five years. The total figures giving a comparative statement of population totals will not be available for some time.

Honor German War Dead

Canadian Olympians Place Wreath On Grave of Unknown Soldier

Canadian Olympians paid tribute to Germany's war dead, placing a wreath of maple leaves on the grave of the unknown soldier.

The ceremony, held in what was once the palace of Frederick the Great, attracted thousands promenading Unter Den Linden. It was the first in which an official Canadian party had honored the war dead of Germany since the armistice.

Dr. Ross McMillar, director of medical services for the department of pensions and national health, represented the Canadian government. Grouped around the memorial with 20 members of the Dominion's Olympic team were representatives of the German foreign office and the British embassy.

The Canadian athletes, both men and women, travelled downtown by bus and the last two blocks to the memorial. Mr. Tom "Torchy" Federn, world famous professional bicycle racer from Victoria, and Tom Allison, coach of the Canadian rowing team, marched at the head of the parade, carrying the wreaths.

Money For Television

B.C. Likely to Need More Funds To Launch Service

Although all plans for launching television service from London in October have been made by the British Broadcasting Corporation, more funds may be needed. Official regular three-hour daily programmes will begin at that time. A television staff of 100 has been appointed and are being trained in Alexandra Palace, new home of the project. "Our plans for television are complete," said a B.C. official, "but no one can say what expenditures will be necessary for launching and maintaining the new service. Already the $900,000 granted the Television Committee has been exceeded. Programme expenditure must be extra."

Putting It Mildly

When the umpire was leaving the grounds after a game between two rival baseball teams, he was approached by an irate fan.

"Where is your dog?" demanded the fan.

"Dog?" ejaculated the umpire. "I haven't any dog."

"You're the only blind man I ever saw who didn't have a dog."

To Remove Grass Stains

Grass stains may be removed from clothing by washing in warm water to which a teaspoon of ammonia has been added. If this does not remove the stain, cover with bicarbonate of soda and let stand until the stain disappears.

A Remarkable Woman

Social Reform Worker In England Dies At 85

One of the most remarkable women of modern times died in London recently, at the age of 85, just when a great scheme of social reform which she started 30 years ago was coming to triumphant completion.

She was Dame Henrietta Barnett, founder of Hampstead Garden Suburb, who died at her home there, in South Square.

A friend of Queen Mary—who more than once visited the Garden Suburb to open new buildings—Dame Henrietta was the widow of the late Canon S. A. Barnett, who left a West End parish to work among the poor of Whitechapel.

She had a vast range of social activities, and her amazing health and energy up to the time of her breakdown just over 18 months ago she ascribed to five simple rules. They were:

Rise at 5:30 a.m. every day.

Work very hard;

Read newspapers carefully every day;

Eat very little;

Say your prayers very often.

Dame Henrietta threw herself wholeheartedly into her husband's work in the East End. They pursued a number of undergraduates, including the late Arnold Toynbee, to spend their holidays with them in Whitechapel, and out of the enthusiasm for social service thus engendered grew the world-famous institution known as Toynbee Hall.

How To Spend A Million

Interesting Contest Being Held In Middle-West U.S. City

Fiction abounds with tales of the man who has a million dollars and doesn't know what to do with it, and once in a while it happens in real life.

In the current Atlantic Monthly, there appears the statement of such a one. The anonymous gentleman, who is vouchsed for by his bankers, lives in a middle-western city of 100,000. He is getting on and he wishes to leave the community a million dollars. The town has ample educational, library, playground, and recreational facilities. How, then, shall he leave his million so that it will do the most good? He offers a $1,000 prize to the person giving him the best answer.

Here is, undoubtedly, the most interesting contest in many moons. The public is eternally invited to devise advertising slogans and melting testimonies for various products, telling a millionaire how to leave his million so that it will do the most good. So, let him try to formulate a sane, sensible plan for using a million dollars for the greatest public good.

A million dollars to be used in a way which shall benefit all, old and young, the butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker—it would tax the wisdom of Solomon or the profligacy of Tugwell—Detroit Saturday Night.

Used Crude Instruments

Doctor In East India Performed Operation Under Difficulties

An eye operation performed on a woman in India with a pair of crooked hands and a pair of tweezers, etc., etc., was a makeshift instrument was described to the East India Association recently by Sir Henry Tristram Holland. He had been engaged in medical work in Baluchistan for 36 years, and is devoting his fortune to the raising of funds for rebuilding the hospital at Quetta.

"The woman had a double cataract," he said. "She refused to go to hospital, so I decided to operate under a juniper tree."

"A woman provided me with a fine crochet hook, which acted as an Iris hook. From some hair pins we made a rough and ready eye speculum, and a pair of embroidery scissors served for Iris scissors. I had with me some cocaine, a cataract knife and a pair of fixation forceps. I operated on both eyes and the old Pashan woman had an excellent result in spite of my treatment."

Sir Henry also told of a native upon whom he operated when the man fell from a tree. Immediately after the operation he was hoisted on to a camel and taken 70 miles to the nearest railway station to be sent to hospital. The man made a perfect recovery.

Fun White Color

The color of perfect white does not exist on earth. Closest to it are white dove down and white chalk.

There comes the whites made in science and industry. The results of three years study to prove this, announced as the first made scientifically, were given to the color conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology by David L. MacAdam of the Institute.

BLIND VETERANS GIVE AMAZING DISPLAY

Recently several blind orphans travelled to Putney, England, to take part in St. Dunstan's Ex-servicemen's Regatta, and put on an amazing display. Above we see Sir Ian Fraser congratulating some of his blind compatriots after they had won the London Rowing Cup. Captain Baker, well-known to Canadians for his work in the Dominion, is on the left of the picture.

Historic Sites

Two More Monuments To Commemorate Settlement Of The West

Erection of two more monuments which will commemorate in stone the saga of the settlement of the west are under consideration by the historic monuments and sites board, Ottawa, Judge F. W. Howay, New Westminster, B.C., western member of the board, announced in Winnipeg.

One will commemorate the old Dawson road from the mouth of Lake Superior to Winnipeg. It will probably be erected in the neighborhood of St. Anne des Chenes, 28 miles east of Winnipeg, Judge Howay said, and may take the form of a cairn. Tentative plans indicate it will be built this year, for dedication next year.

The second monument will commemorate the founding of Fort Murepah at the mouth of the Winnipeg river by La Verendrye. This monument will, according to Judge Howay, not only commemorate the founding of the fort, but will emphasize also the general trading importance of the spot.—Winnipeg Free Press.

SOWING AND REAPING

Golden text: Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. Galatians 6:7.

Lesson: Galatians 6:1-10.

Devotional reading: Galatians 5:16-21.

Explanations And Comments

The Law of Harvest, verses 7 and 8.

Make no mistake; God cannot treat with contempt without provoking his righteous punishment! (Schaff).

A man will reap just what he sows; he who sows for the flesh will reap the body of the flesh; and he who sows for the Spirit will reap life eternal from the Spirit! (Moffatt's translation).

We often think of "sowing"

as referring to a certain action or wrong-doing, but there is also the happy meaning which is equally true, that "he who sows

what he sows will get." (Westcott)

Upper Berths In 'Plane

Two-Storey Machine Just Designed Will Carry 66 Passengers

We are not quite sure if you can go up to bed in the Zeppelins but you may soon do so in a two-storey sleeper plane. From Holland, for example, comes word that Anthony Fokker has designed a "two-storey" passenger plane which will carry 66 passengers with adequate sleeping accommodations, dressing rooms and the like.

This new "F-56" is described as merely an "enlargement" of the Fokker "F-36", now in service on the "London, Amsterdam and Berlin route". The latter carries 32 passengers comfortably. The new "F-56", equipped with most of the modern conveniences, is not considered an experiment since its design is based on the success of the regular commercial service. Its maximum speed is figured at 225 miles per hour and its "cruising speed" at 200 miles in high altitudes and 185 miles at 6,600 feet. Its "absolute ceiling" is reached, we are told, at 26,000 feet, while its "service ceiling" is 24,700 feet.

The famous Dutch designer apparently foresees an era of extremely "high-flying" air liners that will make their long-distance flights at altitudes around 20,000 feet. Nothing is said about the cruising range of his hotel-type cruiser, but presumably his design will adopt it to transoceanic service and provide fuel storage sufficient for the long flights overseas routes where refueling stations may be few and far between. —Brandon Sun.

Germany Buying Back Steel

Scrap Metal From Scapa Flow Derelicts Being Re-Smelting

The German battleships surrendered after the war at Scapa Flow are going back to Germany as part of their modern navy.

The steel plates and guns are cut into suitable lengths of scrap metal. Germany is the biggest buyer of this, and her demands have lately become intense.

The scrap metal is taken to the German steel works and there re-smelted into ships' plates for warships.

Incidentally, many of the steel plates of the liner Queen Mary were forged from the re-smelted steel of the German battleships, and some steel on board her also came from the Mauretania.

Thou Shalt Not Love

A NOVEL BY —
GEORGIA GRAIG

Back of them the sweat-grimed workmen crowded away from the tomb. Their work was done, but they were still plainly uneasy, though there was not a word from any of them.

There was no light in the place save that which came from the flickering torches carried by Professor Ellison and John Lessing. Their eerie lights were awesome, as they played over the rose stone sarcophagus which plainly had not been touched in centuries until the laborious work of the archaeologist's workmen had pried it from its place.

Starr felt sinking as the light was fading, not to spot, over the walls to pick out the beautiful paintings. That smell of the grave was overpowering, terrible. The silence, too, was terrifying, coming so soon after the clamor to which they had become used.

Then the dice of her father's light came to rest at last upon a spot high in the wall, over the sarcophagus. It was ancient Egyptian symbol writing and of course Starr could not make it out, but her father did. He cried out in excitement:

"The famous curse of Tut-Amen-Ra! We've found it, Lessing! We, too, are famous!"

A strange chill settled over Starr, so that everything in that gaudy place danced before her eyes in the flickering torchlight—the curiously shaped bowls, the hammered gold and silver, strangely shaped bottles, queer, ancient lamps. They meant nothing to her. She could think of but one thing, and her premonitions crowded up into her throat to choke her more surely than that terrible smell of the place hidden for so many thousands of years from the outside world. She cried out sharply:

"Curse! What do you mean?"

He explained briefly. "It means, my dear," he said, "but his voice was oddly hushed, "that in thirty centuries no living soul has passed those doors. Those ancient words spell a warning to the first who dares to violate the sanctity of the tomb. Don't let it alarm you, Starr. That same curse has been found many times before. It's superstition is outward."

But was it superstition? Down in her heart Starr could not make herself believe it. That curse was a warning! A warning of death!

Starr glanced about her fearfully, overcome by the uncanny spell of the place. The heat, too, as well as the tomb-odor, was almost insupportable. Her head was reeling; she felt as if she would swoon, but her brain was beating out an insistent warning. It was not of this place alone that she was afraid. There was the outside, too. They, isolated from civilization, were camped at the edge of nowhere, beside a vast cemetery of dead and gone Egyptian royalties. She could imagine anything happening here!

Her panic grew by leaps and bounds as she crawled by the gaudily painted rock tomb walls.

"Daddy! I'm afraid! Afraid! Let's not go any farther! It's a sacrifice—it must be! Suppose that curse came true! Suppose we do bring down on ourselves the vengeance of their gods?"

But the two excited scholars men had no time to listen to the protests of a frightened girl. It seemed hours to her, covering in the background, looking grotesquely out of place while they explored the sarcophagus, exclining over the stoppered flacons, the curious jeweled cups, the bowls, the golden, jewel-encrusted perfume burners, a gilded couch, carved in ancient design, the dozens of things that would add to Professor Ellison's collection and his fame. In the half-darkness, Starr looked like something out of the past herself, as her face glowed luminously white against her black hair, and brought out the frightened mystery of her long black eyes.

The rocky, painted walls were caving with dampness. Never in her life had Starr imagined anyone could feel so terribly shut in, trapped. As she glanced through the open door, she noticed that the Egyptians who had been in charge of the Arab workmen had prostrated themselves on their faces. She was not the only one who was afraid.

Her father was tracing the hieroglyphics on the top of one of the two inner lotus sarcophagi which rested inside the big open granite one.

"Tut-Amen-Ra!" He moved his hand quickly to the second one. "Ama-Sun! I knew it, Lessing! I knew it!"

Journey's end! Starr felt herself infected with some of the explorers' excitement, but it was a strange excitement, pregnant with vague forebodings.

The two men were carefully lifting out the sarcophagus of Ama-Sun, almost like the body of the ancient priestess herself in its startling representation of the one who lay inside it. Their shadows, gigantic, grotesque, danced over the painted walls. The only sound was of tearing wood as they ripped it away from the mummy inside.

It had been a ghastly enough tableau at first, when they had all merely stood still and looked, in the blue-white light, like some awful snapshot thrown on a poorly lit screen, and with all their blue-white faces strained. It was more terrible now that the sarcophagus had come to life and became a moving picture, as if the reading of that curse had been the signal to start them all moving and the terrifying picture to spring into action flitting in ghostly flight through the shallow blue-white light.

Starr clenched her teeth hard, watching her father, whose gaunt features were shining with sweat. Then through the blue-white mist, Starr, watching breathlessly, fascinated, saw the figure of a woman lying in the sarcophagus, a woman swathed in interminable lengths of wrappings which her father, with John Lessing's aid, was unwinding—an unwinding that could go on forever, it seemed.

Suddenly she gave a gasp of awe that followed a moment of what felt like suspended animation. Exposed to her gaze was a marvelously preserved mummy—the mummy of a woman who had lived and loved three thousand years ago. A hint of her tragic beauty still remained. But even as Starr looked, frightened, nothing happened. Starr never could understand how it had come about. John Lessing's aid, was unwinding as he was when he died. Egyptology, she had taken no such chances. They should have known.

The mummy was crumpling! Going to nothing! "Dust to dust!" The contact with air had done it. It was the most terrifying thing Starr had ever seen. For the moment she watched, she felt that she, too, was crumpling. That she was not real. Nothing was!

In a few moments there was nothing left but dust, and a parchment scroll Ama-Sun had held in her hand. John Lessing reached for the scroll.

Starr clapped both hands over her eyes to shut out the sickening sight of that dust woman. Her wild scream echoed eerily through the rocky chamber. After awhile she became conscious that John Lessing was saying something.

"It's heliacal writing," he was saying, his voice choked, unnatural. "But I can make it out. Shall I read it?"

"Of course." Her father's voice sounded sepulchral, too.

Then John Lessing was reading, his voice sounding as if it also had come from a three-thousand-year-old tomb.

Long shivers took hold of Starr's body, shaking her like a leaf. It was a voice from the dead she was hearing, the terrible curse of Tut-Amen-Ra. Here in the tomb, with the knowledge of what they had done, the ancient words, translated by the archaeologist, held a sinister significance.

It seemed that John Lessing's voice would drown on forever. Her father was icily calm, but was forcing himself to that pose, Starr was sure. John Lessing's face in the blue light was ghastly—waxen. His voice shook.

"To thy children, and thy children's children, ill fortune; disaster; death; inevitable death!"

When Starr dared to uncover her eyes, the Egyptians in charge of the digging, who had prostrated themselves, had fled. Nor was there one of the awaiting Arabs in sight. She and her father and John Lessing

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two or three drops of bile every day. If it is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas toxins will poison the body, and you feel sour. A man's bowel movement doesn't always get rid of all the waste products in the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Liver Tonic to help you to feel up and go. It is safe for everyone. It is safe for all ages. It is safe for all.

were alone in the desecrated tomb. Horror turned her to a thing of ice as she saw the men's faces. The eagerness, the excitement, were swept away. They were afraid! Afraid of what they had done! Afraid of the curse!

This knowledge was all that Starr needed to destroy the last vestiges of her own composure. A strained, heavy silence cloaked them. The men were silent with mocking spirits. When John Lessing spoke his stricken voice sounded as if it came down through the ages.

"Al!" he whispered hoarsely. "I'm going to get out of here—alive!"

With a superhuman effort Starr forced the life back into her frozen limbs. She fled, like a white ghost, herself, out into the desert night. Out where the unforgettable dusk of Egypt, that once had fallen so benignantly over the Libyan desert, was already gone. For Starr it would never come again—that once beloved dusk through which rocks showed like black smudges, and the sky took on all the colors of the spectrum, through wonderful transformations of sky blue to delicate pink, then suddenly to turn into deep violet. Its beauty was gone for this night—forever for Starr Ellison.

That night in their camp at the edge of the desert, John Lessing fell ill with a tropical fever. He died twenty-four hours later. His last words in a high-pitched, delirious voice were:

"It's the curse of Tut-Amen-Ra! It's got me, Ellison! It'll get you, too—and Starr!"

Her father was a broken man after the death of his friend, his life-long companion. He did not explore any further into the forbidden resting place of the long-dead lovers, nor did he touch any of the treasures which he had gloried over. He never again looked at them.

Camp was struck immediately and he and Starr returned to America and the New England home where he had planned that his book which was to have made him famous would be written. But the book was never written. Never did he so much as glance at any of the notes Starr had so painstakingly taken. As day by day, he visibly faded, it was evident that the curse of Pharaoh was reaching across the ocean. Everything he did, everything they both did, was attended by misfortune.

The climax came when, with the first bank failure, Professor Ellison, never a business man, was caught and became bankrupt. Even his Egyptian treasures brought him little. Once he had thought he would never part with them, but now he was eager to get them out of his sight. With money at a premium, however, they were worth little, far less than he ever knew, when the last went to pay for his days which were swift and brief.

He realized he was going, though. He died one day.

"I'm a doomed man, Starr. It's the curse. There's no escaping it."

She pleaded with him, sheltering his weary head in her arms.

"Don't, Daddy! Don't! I'll never believe it... You must not!"

But she herself was beginning to feel much of the same curious fatalism which gripped her father; a sense of waiting for the inevitable to happen.

A Good Friend

A disputatious person does not make a good friend. He cares more for argument than for harmony, and is more concerned about proving his own wisdom than making his brother comfortable. Whoever would be a true friend must be content to look over and around many things that do not exactly accord with his own views.

Movie Actors

Motion Pictures Draw Men And Women From All Walks Of Life

Motion pictures draw men and women from virtually all walks of life. There are live stock dealers and bankers who are actors and directors to-day. Seamstresses, carpenters, athletes, college boys and models are enjoying success, too, but the picture business didn't know one of its new stars was a school teacher until Madeleine Carroll identified herself as a teacher of algebra in an English girls' school before she entered the show business.

Teaching, according to Madeleine, should be ideal training for an actress, since every teacher, before she can hope to be successful, must have control of her emotions. This quality is a prime requisite for an interpreter of roles before a camera, Miss Carroll says.

Radio Interference

Britain To Take Steps To Prevent Jamming Of Receiving Sets

Very soon if the postmaster-general has his way, refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and all electrical apparatus will have to be suppressed in the interests of radio listeners. But the word "suppressed" is used only in the technical sense.

It does not mean that these valuable household gadgets must be dispensed with, but only that they must be prevented from causing a noise in nearby wireless sets.

After three years' investigation, the committee on scientific interference has reported to the postmaster-general and he is to act on the recommendation. It should be illegal to allow electrical apparatus to jam radio sets. It is expected legislation will be introduced in the House of Commons in the autumn.

French Mineral Water

Prosperous Industry In France In Selling Water

Selling water has become a popular industry in France. It gives employment directly or indirectly to more than 150,000 persons. Sales bring in 50,000,000 francs per year (about $3,000,000) in taxes to the government and more than 50,000 bottles of French mineral water are exported abroad annually. These facts are from an inventory of French thermal resources just completed.

In olden days taking the cure was often a matter of clever guesswork; it succeeded or it didn't. To-day, in French universities, there are chairs devoted to the science of hydrotherapy.

The railways of France give a reduction of 25 per cent. in first-class and 20 per cent. in the others, to all persons going to a French thermal station to take the cure.

Power In Coal

One pound of coal, blazing under a modern locomotive boiler, will turn enough energy to haul more than eight tons of freight over a mile of track. That estimate was made by J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, who said the carrier had increased their efficiency in the use of fuel 44 per cent. since 1920.

Population Of Canada

Estimated population of Canada in 1935 neared the 11 million mark with a new high figure of 10,949,000, according to the 1936 edition of the Year Book just off the press. This is an increase of 1.2% over the official census figure of 1931. It is a gain of over 100,000 from the 1934 estimate of 10,835,000.

Some men are shaved a little cleaner, bathed a little cleaner and dressed a little cleaner and their mind's a little keener, but when all is said and done, we are all headed for the last round-up.

Save Money

I like the story of what the thief expected for his money. With his two boys he entered a fashionable restaurant and ordered a bottle of lemonade and three glasses. They were served, and father and sons sat around. The waiters were interested. Presently their chief walked past.

"Are you the manager?" inquired the father.

"Yes, sir, I am."

"Then," demanded the man, "why is it that the orchestra is not playing?"

The real Father of Democracy is a person you probably never heard of a man named Ulfgjörður. Anyway, he created the world's first parliament, the Althing of Iceland back in 930 A.D.

Waitress, to customer—"An egg, Sir, yes. How would you like it?"

Customer—"Well, if it is no bigger than the one I had yesterday, I'd like it as a tie-pin."

Gift For The King

"The King's House" Presented By Body Of Trade People

King Edward has formally received "The King's House"—the house built by the Royal Warrantholders' Association, the body of trades people who supply the royal household.

This gift was intended originally as a jubilee present for King George. It stands in its own grounds at Burhill overlooking the Surrey hills, with a distant view of Sussex. It cost £25,000.

In the study, panelled with Canadian silkwood, the king made the first signature in the visitors' book and was presented with an album containing the names of the 1,000 members of the Royal Warrantholders' Association.

One interesting feature in the study is a hidden cocktail cabinet in the wall. Every room in the house has an electric clock and nearly every room its own loud speaker hidden in the wall.

THE CLEVER CLIPPER

When I am sitting down to read
There is a little tool I have
It is my trusty pair of shears.
To clip the ade and rout my fears.
Sometimes I'm afraid I will forget,
But clipping saves much fume and fret;

While reading well the local ads
Of things for Mas and Kids and Dads,
Ortmes a food is a ripper,
Tis then I wield my trusty clipper;
Then pin it to my shopping list
Of other things I might have missed.
I go about from store to store,
But waste no time in puzzling o'er
The things to take home in my zipper,
For practice makes a clever clipper.

Local News

Supplementary examinations will be held at Blairmore on Aug. 21.

Bill Fraser returned Sunday from Vancouver where he has been holidaying for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lochrie will move into rooms adjoining the Knights of Pythias hall, which are being remodelled this week.

The Misses Helen and Pearl Fisher of Spring Point and Miss Gertie Hannahan of Macleod are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Holstead.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Rippon and Miss Stoddart, and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. C. McDonald, will leave for Vancouver by auto on Saturday.

Remember that in addition to copies of The Journal delivered at the homes, copies may be purchased at McBurney's and the Palm Confectionery.

The Italian Society members, men and women, marched to the Catholic cemetery on Sunday evening to place flowers on the graves of departed members.

Alex. M. Morrison was seized with a stroke while in his office on Monday afternoon, and will be taking a complete rest for some days.

Every lady in Coleman is invited to the demonstrations and lectures by the Dickson Riley expert in the United church hall on Thursday and Friday, Aug. 20-21. See advertisement.

Mr. T. Flynn returned on Saturday from two weeks holiday in Victoria and Seattle. His son Dave who lives in Victoria accompanied him to Seattle, having his holidays at the same time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Vincent were in town, from Alexo, and instead of returning to that place, Mr. Vincent will take up employment as a stationary engineer in Turner Valley.

George McRae, of Midwest Paper Sales Ltd., Calgary, and Mr. Downing, manager of the job department of the Medicina Hat News, were visitors here Tuesday, making a pleasant call on The Journal.

Many from Coleman attended the funeral services in Columbus hall, Blairmore, for the victims of the level crossing tragedy on Sunday. So many from the Pass towns attended that even the large hall was insufficient to accommodate them.

G. H. Sirrett, of Bellevue, was demonstrating a machine for taking paper off without gouging the walls. It consists of a gasoline heated device which generates steam, the steam being forced through a tube to a flat surfaced board which is passed over the wall, the steam loosening the paste and presto, you just strip off the paper. He was using it in Steve Krzwy's house, and it was doing a good job.

Editor Bartlett was in town on Tuesday morning, and reports everything in the garden's lovely, work is booming, the plant is busy and all is well with the world. The only fly in the ointment is that fish this year are not so plentiful as in former years. He will soon be celebrating 30 years of activity as publisher and editor of the well-known Blairmore Enterprise. It may be more!

J.A. McDonald, after spending a holiday at Coeur d'Alene with his wife and family, returned to Coleman looking as fit as a fiddle, however fit that may be. But he looked as if he had been slimming, and appeared to be on the way to acquiring a graceful figure. It may be he has discovered the secret of regaining his lost youth, but the only information he vouchsafed as to how he did it was that he took plenty of swimming exercise while on his holiday.

Ben Chow is doing things in fine style at Coleman Cafe, by adding new booths and re-painting the interior. He will have the finest cafe interior in town when completed.

The police committee, including Mayor Pattinson, Crs. Hayson, Plante and Chapman, met on Tuesday evening, and engaged on probation Douglas Lowe, formerly of Lethbridge city police, for night duty.

Another good rumor this week was to the effect that a man had fallen in the coke ovens and burned to a cinder. This reminds one of Dan McGraw who got into the furnace, and when someone opened the door to shovel in more coal, he told them to hurry and shut it to keep out the cold.

As an introductory offer to new subscribers, or for those who wish to have copies mailed to relatives or friends, The Journal will be mailed or delivered to any address in Canada for 25c for two months. Those who have lived in Coleman will appreciate receiving the local weekly, for it is as interesting as a letter from home.

Business Announcements

The snapshot photos of to-day will become treasured mementoes of a few years hence. See that you get the best films at McBurney's drug store and have them developed too by the most modern process.

Now is the time to make arrangements about furnace installations. Pattinson Hardware will give you estimates on steam, hot water or hot air furnaces, completely installed by experienced workmen.

See that your insurance is kept in force. You cannot afford to take risks on what may be your life's savings. See Alex. M. Morrison's insurance office.

QUALITY PRINTING

TO BECOME a skilled craftsman in the printing trade requires seven years apprenticeship. Even after that, there is much to learn, for printing is a progressive art.

When you place an order with The Journal you get THE BEST in workmanship and stock. It pays to get the best, for good printing adds dignity to your business, and creates a much better impression than any substitution or imitation of real printing.
